MERITS OF GOVERNMENT IN BALANCE

Mock Parliament to Convene at Eight P.M.

INTEREST HIGH

Pros and Cons of Representative Program to Be Argued

Today the Representative party is in power; to-morrow—who knows?—the Progressive opposition may have gained the confidence of the mass of parliamentarians at McGill. This issue depends entirely upon the trend of proceedings this evening, that is, it will be decided by the majority of votes cast, which majority will depend upon the number of adherents who turn out to support the platform of their beliefs; upon the number who stand up to express their views, and lastly upon the number who are convinced by the exposition of the leanings of each of the partisan speakers.

As is noted in the heading above, the parliament will open at eight o'clock, in the hall room of the Union. At eight-fifteen, the Governor General Sir Arthur Currie, will read the address from the Throne, in which the main planks of the platform of the government will briefly be set forth. It is around this that the discussion will hinge: the proposals therein enunciated will be tenaciously defended by F. O. Peterson, and his ministers and members of the Representative element; on the other hand, the opposition, under the leadership of W. R. Dillon will, undoubtedly, question sharply certain principles of the Prime Minister's policy in respect to immigration, while other matters of controversy will be sure to arise.

This, the inaugural session of parliament, will be ushered in with all proper pomp and display. There will be a guard of honour from the C. O. T. C. for the Governor General, a Sergeant at arms to maintain order, and messengers to carry the messages of prospective debaters.

Every undergraduate is entitled to a place on the floor, and is consequently privileged to voice his approval or objection to any measure brought before the House, the only qualification being that he write his name and constituency upon a piece of paper and give it to a messenger boy to deliver to the leader of the government.

The following dignitaries will figure prominently:

Governor General—Sir Arthur Currie.
Speaker—John T. Hackette, K.C.
Clerk—P. A. G. Clarke.
Sergeant at Arms—T. R. Taschereau.

JUNIORS.

Tickets for the prom. are now on sale with the faculty representatives. All men going are requested to purchase their tickets as soon as possible to facilitate the collecting of the money.

LECTURES TO BE GIVEN TO C.O.T.C. MEN

Field Operations During the Season

READING MATTER

Entries for Captain's and Lieutenant's Certificates

A goodly number of entries have been made already by men who wish to obtain their lieutenants' and captains' certificates. These are known as "A" (Lieutenants') and "B" (Captains') certificates, and they exempt the holders from further qualification for those ranks in the Canadian Militia, the Territorial Force and Special Reserve of Officers of the British Army, and generally throughout the Empire.

Their value to holders is great, quite apart from the question whether they take up military commissions or not. No man can obtain either certificate unless he has shown practically that he can give orders to men in a clear, concise, and decisive manner; that he has a good knowledge of his military duties and responsibilities; and that he can act quickly on his own initiative as occasions arise. Men who obtain the "B" certificate must be men to whom, as captains, one could entrust the welfare on active service and in peace time of a company of over 200 men, and men who obtain the "A" certificate, as lieutenants of a platoon of over 50 men. Men who can obtain these certificates are the men to be sought after for the higher appointments in professional and commercial life, as well as in military life, because they have been taught how to command men, and how to act speedily and with thought in emergencies. The Regulations describe what kind of man the training is intended to evolve as follows:

"The officer is the leader and instructor of his men. He must always remember that to maintain discipline he must possess the confidence of the men in his professional ability; but since, in war, he may be called upon to assume responsibilities beyond those of his rank, he must prepare himself for a sound system of training in times of peace to acquire the habit of quickly and correctly appreciating a situation, of arriving rapidly at a decision, of translating that decision into suitable orders, and of ensuring the rapid and well-reasoned execution of those orders in the field."

PROFESSORS LEAD IN BIBLE STUDY

Real Support by Faculty and Students

Much increased interest has been taken this year in Bible Study work around the university. The success of its new lease of life lies in the fact that the leaders are men who command the respect of the student body to an exceedingly great extent.

The one ideal which stands out predominantly is the desire to discuss in a frank and clear manner subjects which students are really interested in, and to do so when it is most convenient for them. To this end several different courses have been selected and will be given at various periods throughout the week.

Last night at one of these periods some one hundred men made an appearance at the hall, when only three out of the five groups met.

In brief the programme is as follows:

Prof. MacKay, Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Hall.

Prof. Graham, Sunday at 10 a.m. at Wesleyan.

Mr. MacKay, Sunday at 2.15 p.m. at Hall.

Mr. Jones, Monday at 6 p.m. at Con. College.

Prof. Reilly, Monday at 6 p.m. at the Hall.

Mr. Dewey, Monday at 6 p.m. at the Hall.

Prof. Gifford, Monday at 6 p.m. at the Hall.

In addition it is expected that Dr. Cyrus Macmillan will form a class which will be equally as interesting.

With such support given by the faculty of McGill the results of the season in this regard are assured.

"NOW IS THE TIME"

We doubt not that almost everyone who has learned writing by the copy-book method or has painfully acquired the art of type-writing can finish the well-worn sentence of which the title is the beginning. "Now is the time for every good man to come to the aid of his party" is a famous catch-phrase. Whether formulated primarily for political purposes or not we are unaware as we have not been able to trace its origin. But its efficacy is none the less on that account.

And now we come to the application of this war-cry to McGill. Our Mock Parliament will be officially opened this evening and it is hoped that everyone who possibly can will be there to side with the government or the opposition in the debate over the Speech from the Throne which will be read by Sir Arthur Currie, acting as Governor-General. Of course it is not necessary that the whole Parliament be conducted along strict party lines, no pledge of unchanging sentiment being exacted from the supporters of either platform. But the conducting of affairs on a party basis and the possession by one party or the other of a certain number of sure votes in every division will add greatly to the interest and excitement of the proceedings.

The real feelings of the speakers are naturally not expressed in a parliament of this kind, those taking part doing so not from a sense of conviction in any policy but rather in a search for fun coupled with a desire to improve their public-speaking ability. So that no one should be taken too seriously when making vehement protestations against measures which would obviously be for the common good or when voting strictly by party in spite of an avalanche of arguments thundered forth by the opposite side of the house.

The Mock Parliament will furnish a genuine training-ground for debate and some very good entertainment for those who take part. It is an activity well worth devoting time to. Let us rally around the party standards already raised or else hoist one of our own. If we cannot agree with the sentiments expressed in the existing platforms let us construct a new one. But let us be present in any case. For "now is the time for every good man to come to the aid of his party."

UNDERGRADUATE ATTITUDE

The average student of the University who goes to classes and drinks malted milks and wears his pajamas to breakfast experiences something of chagrin, mingled with mortification and disgust, when the progress of an otherwise satisfactory argument is halted by someone interposing the "undergraduate attitude" as the root of all college evils. No more can be said. It answers all questions, meets all arguments, and dooms the student irremediably to eternal incompetency. It has probably never been defined, and, if defined, would mean less than it is allowed to mean now.

Professors, of course, are unfairly prone to the greatest possible exploitation of the term, but this is fortunate since it keeps them from resorting to more telling terminologies. It is harmless as they use it, but in the actual significance of this characteristic attitude is something that tends to discomfort.

The "undergraduate attitude" might be defined as the thing that allows students to forget, to disregard, and to be careless; it is the thing that permits lax committee reports, that promotes tardiness at meetings, and that swells the bad check list at the bank; it is the thing that means irresponsibility, inaccuracy, and loose ends; it is the thing that prompts the taxpayer to take alarm, that moves the legislatures to a questioning about appropriations, and that persuades father that he should keep his son on the farm; and it is the thing that makes a picture of the college student of the rah-rah rather than of the studious type, that forces business men to talk of pounding a bit of common sense into the college man before he is any good, and that keeps the college and the university from filling the places that they rightly deserve.

The "undergraduate attitude" is the sore spot of the college student. It is a thing that can not be legislated against, it can not be ridiculed away, and it can not be kept covered. It is the undergraduate.—Daily Iowan.

The large number of candidates nominated for the positions of faculty representatives on the Students' Council is an indication of the interest being taken in student affairs. The day when the majority of offices were filled by acclamation is apparently past and there is keen competition for the highest positions in student activities.

Now that the nominations have been officially made, there remains the duty of turning out on election day and voting for one or other of the candidates. It will be some time before the elections are held and every student should make it his duty to find out what candidates are chosen and vote for the man whom he thinks will best fill the office.

A system was inaugurated in some of the faculties, a few years ago, of having a special meeting of the students at which the candidates could give their views on undergraduate affairs and at the same time allow everyone to see them. It has proved successful in almost every case and might well be adopted throughout the university.

Lack of interest in student affairs is generally caused by ignorance or indifference on the part of many men. The meetings held for the purpose of introducing the candidates can do much to inform the students of important issues in student government and, at the same time, create a renewed interest in the elections.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Daily is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communication from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculty will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office — that they write upon ONE SIDE OF THE PAPER ONLY.

No communication will be admitted in this column without the name of the writer being attached, not necessarily for PUBLICATION.

The Editor,
The McGill Daily.

Dear Sir:
May I make use of your valuable space to voice a protest which I feel is echoed in the heart of every sportsman at McGill. I wish most strongly and emphatically to protest at the criticism levelled at the captain of the football team in yesterday's issue of the Daily. The reporter of the game stated that Anderson "was the most unreliable man on the field as far as catching the ball was concerned." That statement coming as it did at the end of the season when all was over and done with was the most execrable thing I have ever seen in print. To think that such a statement should be made in the columns of the Daily is almost beyond belief. No mention was made of an incident in the game which has placed captain Anderson in the hall of fame. I refer to the occasion on which Anderson told the referee that the ball had hit him thus giving Queens' the ball on our twenty yard line. The official had not seen it and Anderson's action was one the memory of which will live in the annals of intercollegiate sport for many years to come. Every member of the team is proud to have played under such a man and the altogether unnecessary criticism which appeared in the Daily is I am sure most fiercely resented by every good sportsman who saw or heard about the game. May I in conclusion extend my sympathies to the reporter who missed the finest incident in the past football season, and suggest that in future more attention be paid to the spirit of football rather than to those mistakes which of necessity occur in any game.

I am Sir,
Yours truly,
D. W. Ambridge.

The report from which the writer extracts one phrase reads as follows:
"As far as fumbling was concerned, McGill had a wide margin over their opponents in the number of errors credited against them. The Red and White half line seemed to go to pieces early in the game and they could not keep a firm hold on the ball at any time. It was 'Boo' Anderson's off-day. Fighting his hardest, the usually safe half was the most unreliable player on the field as far as catching the ball was concerned. Time after time he would let go of the pigskin after having caught it and he was never given a chance to recover the ball once gone."

Nothing was said in the report that might be taken as meaning that Captain Anderson did not do his utmost to win the game. On the other hand it definitely states that he was "fighting his hardest" and that it was his "off-day." The work of the fighting leader of the McGill team has received its due amount of praise in the columns of this paper throughout the season, and we feel sure that Anderson himself would not wish to have his good play praised and his faults overlooked at all times.

The mention of the captain's sporting action in refusing to take an unfair advantage of the Queen's team comes as pleasant news to the man who wrote the article as it will be to other people who witnessed the game. Incidents of that kind are not numerous in the history of sport and it is unfortunate that it should have been omitted from the report.

Can Ambridge justly blame the reporter for not mentioning the fact? Sitting on the sidelines and judging the play only by what he sees, the reporter cannot give an account of every conversation that takes place on the field between players and officials. Perhaps the writer of the letter might, after considering the matter, place a little blame on himself for the omission. The reports printed in the paper try to include all of the important incidents of the games in order that the students might get an unbiased account of the play. Would it be too much trouble for Ambridge, or any other man, to assist the reporters and editors to give a fair account by relating any such incidents before the report is published, instead of waiting until later to criticize it?

The spirit of the football player in upholding the captain of his team must be commended. There is not a student attending McGill who has anything but the highest regard for Anderson and no one would place any blame on his shoulders for chance misplays he happened to make. The amount of glory he has achieved in the past three years on the college team cannot be dimmed by any mistake he might make in the heat of the play when fighting his hardest for McGill.

If Ambridge wishes to suggest that mention of bad plays on the part of McGill should be omitted and a purely biased report of the games inserted, we feel that his sentiments are not those of the student body as a whole. The policy of the college paper will be, as it has been in the past, to give a report of the games as they appeared to the man who was delegated to cover the game, always, of course, subject to be corrected or augmented by the editor before it goes to press.

Montreal, November 14th, 1921.

The Editor,
McGill Daily.

Dear Sir:
In reply to two letters published in your issue of today regarding Mr. Marler's and the Hon. Mr. C. C. Balantyne's meetings at the Royal Victoria College, I would like to say that every effort has been made on Mr. Herbert Marler's part to hold a meeting especially for McGill students.

It was obvious that such a meeting could be best held in the Ball Room of the Union, and for this purpose, I, acting for Marler, made application in writing to Mr. Copeland, President of the Student's Council. The application stipulated that Mr. Marler would do nothing to solicit votes or to induce the students to cast their ballots for one side or the other. The meeting was to be non-partisan and Mr. Marler would merely lay the facts of the situation before the students and allow them to decide for themselves for whom they should vote.

While Mr. Copeland was not kind enough to answer this application, I learnt through other sources that he was opposed to having such a meeting in the Union on the ground that it was a political meeting and could not be non-partisan.

If the students of McGill want Mr. Marler to address them, he will be only too pleased to do so at any time and in order that the gentleman singing himself "A Progressive Representative" may be appeased (you will remember he asked for action) I have again written to Mr. Copeland asking his permission to hold a meeting in the Union.

Yours very truly,
George C. Marler.

November 14th, 1921.
The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,
May I through your columns, be permitted to offer a few words of explanation regarding the question of the addresses given women students of the University by the candidate of both Conservative and Liberal parties.

We are extremely sorry that the situation has been so apparently misunderstood. As young women but recently engaged to the franchise and having the interests of our Dominion at heart, we set about to secure both speakers in order to derive a clearer understanding of the questions at issue in the coming elections, and of the policies and platforms of the respective parties.

We never dreamed for a moment that such ardent seekers after enlightenment, as Messrs. "Adolescents" and "Progressive Representative" were not equally as liberty to secure the services of these candidates and equally capable of working up a meeting open to them and their interested colleagues.

Moreover, perhaps the men students have not taken into consideration the fact that for many of the women students, and especially for those living in residence under rule and regulation of an institution, attendance at the public meetings held down town at night is very difficult. Therefore when the respective canvassers came to the college we asked if it would be possible to secure the services of the candidates themselves or of one of their representatives, and we were so fortunate as to receive the offer of the candidates in person. We asked them to meet us informally in the Common Room, and not in the "spacious auditorium," at the same time opening the meeting to all women students of McGill, which surely offers an audience adequately representative of the R. V. C.

It surely is too bad that the feelings of our colleagues of the opposite sex have been so hurt, especially as it was done so unwittingly, but, cheer up! it is not too late to do something about the matter!

In closing, I would offer them this one bit of encouragement, that I am sure they will find both Mr. Marler and the Hon. C. C. Balantyne as willing to come and speak to them as they were to come to us. So why not follow the example set you by the R. V. C., and get busy. After all there is still plenty of time before December 6th!

Thanking you for your space, Mr. Editor, and I am sorry for the sake of Mr. Progressive Representative that from our side the result of his appeal had to be "a reply."

Yours respectfully,
"Cayenne."

AMERICAN CLUB HAS PROMISING OUTLOOK

The American Club got away to a good start last Friday when all officers for the year were selected and arrangements made for the annual Thanksgiving dinner. The club has made rapid progress since its inauguration and to the student from America is the best means of having many interesting evenings during the year. This year promises to be the most successful one in its history as regards both numbers and club functions. Many events are being decided upon for the year and great interest is being shown by all the members of the club.

The Thanksgiving dinner which is being held on the last Thursday of this month promises to eclipse all predecessors in every way. The club is holding a meeting to-night in the music room of the Union, where business concerning the present conditions at the Conference now taking place at Washington, and final arrangements about the dinner, will be discussed. The meeting is at 7:30 p.m.

EXCITEMENT AS STUDENT KILLS COP

Undergraduate Arrested on Charges of Theft and Murder

NAME WITHHELD

Claimed that He Stole Car and Tipped Waiter with Bogus Coin

The greatest consternation was caused among the students of old McGill yesterday by the information that one of their most popular class-mates had been arrested on a double charge of theft and murder with intent to kill. Those who received the intelligence were horrified beyond measure at the news and at first could give no credit whatever to the story knowing the youth in question to be one of most sober habits, scarcely ever stirring out of doors after dark save to study in the library. To tell the truth, and nothing besides, the evidence is entirely circumstantial, and though convincing on the surface may be entirely a line of events fastening a wrongful suspicion on the unhappy man. The facts of the case as given out by the local police and detective force are as follows:

The student, whose name is not divulged for fear of a sympathetic raid on the county jail, is accused of having wilfully and knowingly stolen, on the 12th of November, from the stage door of the Hilarity Theatre, St. Catherine St. East, one Paige Runabout, 8 cylinder, model 1894, manufacturers number 9039, engine serial number 7734, bearing the license plate of this province, number 12345 A. B. C. After having abducted this speed wagon he stepped on the juice and made the best of his way up University St., where he upset by violent contact the equilibrium, poise and feelings of one peanut cart at the corner of Milton and said University Street, narrowly failing to squash the owner of the aforementioned cart, who managed to crawl clear to safety after being run over by the front wheels which were going too fast to cause much injury outside of two broken legs, a fractured collarbone, and tearing off one ear.

By this time the policeman on duty at the corner of Sherbrooke and University had summoned a reserve from the nearest station. On a call for volunteers being made one brave constable offered to give chase on a motorcycle. And now comes the bloody part of the tale.

Trailing the fleeing car as it speeded swiftly up University street hill, his speedometer registering 99 m. to the second he met with his death. The man in the car, whether our hero or not remains to be proved, suddenly shot on his brakes. The motorcycle policeman not doing the same thing in sufficient time struck the stationary motor with a terrible jolt which threw him on his head in front of the automobile. The callous driver then guided the car carefully over the asphalt-shocked form of his pursuing enemy, entirely extinguishing all traces of life therefrom.

It is then stated that he drove direct to 11642 Fortune Boulevard, Notre Dame de Grace. After staying there for a while he took his lady friend to the Ritz Carlton for dinner. This is used as a great piece of deduced evidence as showing he had in mind the proceeds to be derived from the sale of the auto. And here comes also the first clue as to the identity of the murderer. The waiter who served the couple with dinner swears that he was given a tip in the form of a coin which he at first took to be a twenty-five cent piece of the Dominion of Canada, but which later proved to be a one cent copper coin covered with mercury, deliberately done with intention to deceive. Police experts say that any criminal with a mentality high enough to conceive a clever trick like that must be a student, and use that as a strong point against the unfortunate one arrested. It is then stated that after dinner he paid for it at the office with a cheque which was later returned from the bank N. S. F., being drawn on a friend's account.

Now when suspicion arose about this queer customer notice was immediately given to the Chief of Police who commenced a thorough search of the town for the man. He and his fair partner were finally found in the Gettuller Cabaret on Fifth Avenue, near St. Antoine East, sucking weed lime at 9:30 in the evening, and having on the table between them a bottle of Nuxated Iron containing four raisins. Our hero being the only student in the place, and a car outside the door answering the description of that stolen, he was arrested on the charges preferred above, and still protesting his entire innocence was lodged behind the bars.

It is hoped that he will be cleared and in the meantime the smartest cop porter has been assigned to the case in the hope of finding some evidence which will remove the stain from his escheon.

METHODISTS HAVE INTERESTING WEEK

Many Events of Note Took Place in Last Seven Days

The activities of Wesleyan last week were well maintained notwithstanding their multiplicity. On Sunday twenty-two Students made the Annual trip to Montreal South. Four of them conducted the morning service in the Methodist Church and two the evening one. Upton and McMath were the respective preachers. The students and the people both greatly enjoyed the day and we heartily congratulate the College Chaplain Will. Eddy who made all the arrangements. On Wednesday evening the Governors visited the College. They came for lunch at 6 p.m. and afterwards inspected the building. They then held a short meeting at which they expressed their pleasure with the management and spirit of the college and their joy at the large registration, no less than sixty-nine being enrolled. At 7 p.m. the same evening the Probationers' Society met in downstairs class room. The business arising was ably transacted under the Presidency of H. H. Gillingham.

Not the least interesting item of College life during the week was the "ten minute song practice" each evening conducted by Harold White. Harold wants some College singing and he means to have it. Every evening for ten minutes commencing 7 P. M. everyone is requested to gather around Harold and the Organ and learn to make use of the McGill New Song Book.

The selections by the Orchestra on Thursday Evening in the Dining Hall were greatly appreciated. T. C. wants college life to be like home but Roberts maintains he is going to make Wesleyan supersede home. All the other departments were equally alive during the week.

OUR MARTLETS' HISTORY GIVEN

When the Crusaders were crusading in the Holy Land they found time to kill a few of the birds in the vicinity for their oriental coverings. In the passage home these birds, lost, their backs and feet from this fact the tradition evolved that they were birds of Paradise, which, not requiring to eat, had no occasion to land and so they are supposed to have spent all their time in flying about. In England these birds of Paradise were given the name of Martlets and were made use of as heraldic symbols.

The ancestor of the founder of this College, appropriated three Martlets for his shield but as they appeared white on a red ground we may deduce that the Martlets on being removed from their native Paradise lost their color, due to the removal or faulty taxidermy. Anyhow it was white Martlets which James McGill brought to Canada and they did not regain their colors till they found another Paradise in the grounds set aside by James McGill for the College bearing his name. They are now red Martlets.

The coat as it now stands has three red martlets on a white field (argent base) surmounted by two coronets on a chief-dentilly gules. They sing in unison the one refrain from one book. "In domino confido" is an excellent motto for crusaders and students, the crusaders of today. Likewise is "Gradescent aucta labor," although the majority of us prefer the "aucta" to the "labor."

SCHEDULE WAS ARRANGED FOR BASKETBALL

"Knock-Out" System Again
This Year

SCHEDULE OUT

Highlanders Armory and Molson Hall Secured for Players

16 enthusiastic class representatives were at the Union 5.30 yesterday afternoon discussing basketball and endeavoring to arrange leagues and a schedule of games for the coming winter months.

L. P. Little, president of the McGill basketball club assisted by W. N. Tussel secretary-manager called the meeting to order. A vigorous discussion took place over the "knock-out" system employed in the past. The chief objection against this elimination plan is, once a team is defeated it has little chance of playing many more games.

Mr. Van Wagner was present and offered many valuable suggestions.

It was announced by Little that the Highlanders Armory on Bleury Street has been secured and it is here that the Juniors, Intermediates and Seniors will have their practices and possibly their games. The class teams will use Molson Hall.

Men that show good form will be transferred to the Juniors, Intermediates or Seniors. Freshmen please note that two practices or games a week count as P. T. attendance.

On Wednesday November 16th at Molson Hall, 5-6 p.m. all Senior basketball men of previous years are asked to turn out. The following are especially urged to be there.

- Crain.
- Laishley.
- Hay.
- Little.
- Brown.
- Hilton.
- Amaron.
- Manson.
- Boyd.
- Burke.
- Gamble.
- Menzies.
- Parlow.

and any others who have played in senior company.

The Inter-Class Basketball schedule commencing Friday at Molsons Hall is given below. The knock-out system will be in force.

2. Commerce '22 vs. Science '22 5.45 p.m.

Wed. 23. 8. Med. '25 vs. Arts '22 7 p.m.

Science '24 —bye.

All teams are requested to be on hand at the proper time as the playing hours are limited.

Each team manager or captain should also see that the members of his team have been medically examined before participating in any contest.

L. P. Little, Pres.

If any team cannot play at the scheduled time, please communicate with Dr. Lamb's office immediately.

S.C.A. MEETING HELD AT R.V.C.

Luncheon Will Take Place
Next Week

Yesterday, at 1 o'clock, the S. C. A. of R. V. C. held a very successful meeting in the common room, R. V. C. After the minutes had been read and approved, Miss Kerr announced that on Wednesday, the 16th of this month, a luncheon will be given at the Y. W. C. A., at which Miss Anderson, of Bombay, will be the guest of honour. Miss Anderson, who is the general "Y. W." secretary in Bombay, is supported by Canadian women students. This luncheon will cost each girl 75 cents, and it is hoped that many students will take advantage of this opportunity to meet Miss Anderson.

After extending this invitation, Miss Kerr asked the secretary, Miss Holmway to read the constitution, which was drawn up in the spring, but which has not as yet been approved and adopted. The meeting was then opened for discussion. Some of the clauses gave rise to interested and lively discussion; but unfortunately, owing to those things known as "2 o'clocks," it was necessary to adjourn the meeting before a decision could be reached on certain points.

Members are asked to think over those questions which were left undecided, and to be ready to voice their opinions at the next meeting which will be held at an early date.

Cord No. 1, looking for some pins: "These pins are frightfully troublesome."

Her suite-mate: "Why so?"

SKI CLUB IS TO COMMENCE YEAR'S WORK

Meeting of Special Interest to
First and Second Years

TO FILL VACANCY

Executive Plans Novice Competitions and Runs

On Thursday afternoon at 5 p.m. in Strathcona Hall the Ski Club will hold its first general meeting of the season 1921-1922. Every man interested in skiing is earnestly requested to be present and specially first and second year men who want to ski to satisfy the requirements of the Department of Physical Education. There are also many matters which concern the whole club.

The office of secretary will have to be filled at this meeting. Len Reid who was elected to that office has not returned to college this year and the meeting will be asked to elect his successor.

For the benefit of first and second year men who may not understand the attendance requirements, the situation is this. The Department of Physical Education requires that all first and second year men put in a certain amount of physical training each week. During the skiing season this may be satisfied by turning out twice a week to ski. The Ski Club arranges to have a man on the mountain at the Look-Out each day to take the attendance, between 3 and 4 o'clock. The name of the man, taking this attendance will be announced in the "notice" column of the Daily each day.

Arrangements are practically completed whereby a jump will be erected on the Stadium. This will be on the slopes on the western end of the Grand Stand. A chute will be built on the road above the slope and it will be possible to jump at least thirty feet. A smaller jump for those putting on skis for the first time will also be made. In addition to this negotiations are on foot for the use of the Montreal Ski Club jumps on Cote des Neiges Road. These jumps have been rebuilt and it is expected to see some Eastern Jumping Records broken this winter. The big jump has a landing hill 250 feet long.

As a result of investigations carried on just before the snow left last spring, slopes on which proficiency trials could be held were found on the Stadium property in the rear of the Grand Stand. This is very handy because it has always been difficult to find suitable slopes to do the turns on.

This year the executive plan to feature competitions and runs which will embrace more particularly novices and those who may not be expert enough to catch a place on the college team. With this end in view they have drafted a set of rules which divide skiers into three classes for each of the following events: Jumping; Crosscountry running; and Proficiency. The exact conditions to be announced in a day or two.

The skiing yesterday was as good as any day last winter and from now on someone will be at the Look-Out to take attendance and all that is necessary to join the Ski Club is to give your name to him.

INSTRUCTIVE LECTURE BY McGILL GRAD.

Major Chisholm Tells of Canadian Trade

GREAT ACTIVITY

Large Turnout of Commercial Society Last Evening

In an extremely interesting address before the Commercial Society last evening, Major Chisholm, Canadian Trade Commissioner for the Caribbean Sea Countries, gave a clear and concise account of the workings of the Commercial Intelligence Service, working for the Canadian Government.

The primary purpose of this Service is in the development of the export trade of as many finished "Made In Canada" articles as possible, to as many of the world's markets as is possible.

This branch of the Department of Trade and Commerce is combing the world for markets for raw materials and foodstuffs, such as wheat, timber, fish, skins, ores and etc., but rather than see these articles leave the country in their raw state, they are endeavoring to arrange the market so that our wheat will leave in the form of flour, our timber in the form of furniture and planks, and our coal and iron in the form of machinery. Also, instead of our exports and imports passing through the port of New York by foreign ships, through foreign brokers, and over United States railroads, an effort is being made to divert our foreign trade in Canadian goods by way of Canadian ports, through Canadian firms, and via Canadian ships. To this end our Canadian Intelligence Service is being extended to all portions of the globe and new offices are being opened in Calcutta, Singapore and Jamaica, in addition to those already established in the United Kingdom, France, Belgium, Holland, Italy and practically all other

WATER POLO TEAMS PLAY AT Y.M.C.A.

Probability of Three-Cornered Tie

LAISHLEY IN GOAL

McGill Must Win to Stay in Race for Championship

The McGill Senior and Intermediate Water Polo teams will play the hardest games of their schedule on Wednesday night at the Central "Y" natorium. Their opponents are the fast senior and intermediate Montreal Swimming Club teams. The two intermediate teams will play their game before the senior event.

The M.S.C. are at present leading the league and a win for them means the title. They have already defeated McGill in a game that proved to be one of the best this season. McGill, to stay in the running, must win this match and Coach Vernot feels confident that the team will make good. The McGill team has put some exceptionally hard work in at practices in the last few days and they promise a decisive win over the league leaders, they will have their strongest line-up in the pool and all are in the pink of condition. Laishley will be in goal for McGill and any points M.S.C. secure will certainly be well-earned.

There is a good probability of a three-cornered tie in the league if McGill wins their game and M.A.A.A. win their next two, which are taking place in their own pool. Certainly McGill are sure that the Sea Lions are going to have their colors lowered in a decisive manner on Wednesday.

George Moore will referee the game and those fans who have accidentally not heard of his ability in that line can rest assured that they will witness no poor decisions.

The game is attracting a great deal of interest and is bound to attract the season's largest crowd. It is practically the deciding game in the league and the M.S.C. supporters are turning out in full force to help their teams, and with the McGill contingent in large numbers there promises to be some real excitement. The "Y" pool is one of the largest in America and has a spectators' gallery and is the only natorium in Montreal that could possibly hold the crowd expected Wednesday.

The reserved tickets for the game are now on sale at the Union. They are 75 cents each. General admission will be sold at the Central Y.M.C.A. only. The price is 50 cents.

The league standing to date is:

	Won	Lost	Played
M.S.C.	2	0	2
McGill	1	1	2
M.A.A.A.	0	2	2

The first game starts at 8.15 p.m.

countries doing an extensive exporting and importing trade.

Recruits for this service are difficult to obtain, as was demonstrated recently when the Civil Service Commission advertised through Canada, inviting applications for the position of Junior Trade Commissioners in the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa. Here the accepted candidates receive two or three years training before being sent abroad to fill more responsible positions in connection with the service. Out of 75 applicants, only 5 were successful in passing the required examination, which fact does not reflect a great deal of credit on our Canadian Universities. One of the duties of these Junior Trade English manufacturers was showing to these the inducements offered to the establishment of branches of their manufacture in Canada. Canada is thus working along Imperial lines, as it has been found we cannot depend on United States Trade.

As the interests of Major Chisholm lie in the countries bordering on the Caribbean Sea, he dwelt at length on our trade in that section of the globe. He claims we are rapidly undermining the prestige formerly held by our neighbor to the South, and the Canadian Merchant Marine has had no small part in this good work. It is being rapidly found out that most of the articles which we produce are things which they must consume, and vice versa, hence great advantage is found in the exchange of goods. This exchange is not so good in the United States, as they produce themselves, many of the goods which go to make up this trade.

In concluding his remarks, Major Chisholm offered to answer any questions which might have arisen in the minds of any of the audience, but due to the clearness of his remarks, few questions were asked.

Before indulging in the usual refreshments, Lieut. Col. Thompson, C. O. T. C. was called upon to say a few words which he delivered in his usual capable manner. During the serving of refreshments Mr. Gault demonstrated his ability on the ivories which was well received, and which concluded a very profitable and enjoyable evening for the members of the Society.

THE SOAP BOX

Those who live today on high enough pinnacles, to be able to perceive something of the trend of the times, seem united in the belief that Civilization, the great industrial structure which the Anglo-Saxon through the last century has so fabricated and elaborated into its gigantic complexity—is shaking to its very foundations. What the enthusiastic inventors, politicians and philosophers of the utilitarian epoch dreamed would produce for the world a comfort, a broader and intenser happiness, has not come to pass. Amidst the wreckage of economic life—the havoc of the war, the human race all over the world grows restless and discontented. Famine and disease stalk through Russia and create a desert where once was vigorous production; India, Egypt seethe with unrest and chaos under the bondage of the Englishman. Everywhere there is some "lamentation and gnashing of teeth,"—an embittered dissatisfaction with the state of things which vents itself in ruthless outbursts on innocent victims. All men wait for a solution—a salvation—but whether "can they look?"—only to men scarcely less trivial and petty than themselves.

It is the old, old story of the four horsemen. Those who saw that great film must have appreciated something of what war means. Those who fought overseas know what war is and will have no more of it. Those who live now will experience the grim reaction. But over here where Anglo-Saxon greed and common sense, firm grooved in the tenets of Capitalism and its industrial complexity, holds its sway and bears with the injustices and hardships that war works, civilization seems to stand unmoved, secure amidst the rage and restlessness of the age. What is the product of a century's stolid Anglo-Saxon considers will last for all time—indeed will progress further out of a present imperfect state of disharmony and inefficiency into one of greater happiness and wealth. "Pooh pooh!" he says, "this turmoil and trouble—you excitable folk full of imaginations and hysterical fears—get down to work—attend to your task, use common sense and we'll hold the world together!"—and so your "hard-headed business man" turns over his newspaper and reads attentively the sporting page.

There is something admirable and something alarming in this attitude of mind. That the human race depends upon Anglo-Saxon practical sense and cool steady judgment, seems evident, for nowhere else today does there rest such control amidst the chaos. This I say is admirable and entirely essential but there is also a certain blindness and superficiality which shows that this solidity is founded on a narrow and frivolous basis. It is the security of one who locks himself up in a closet—not that of one who preserves calm control over an excited humanity. We must face the facts of the Social movements. There is no need to grow hysterical over them but we must know them and then stifle the panic not by ignoring it but by steadily reforming the deficiencies of our Social System. As to how this can be produced there is much disagreement. There are those who still lustily defend Capitalism at all costs with its doctrine of individual right of property and competition. The fittest being is he who can amass most cleverly the largest amount of money which men call "wealth." They would maintain that this unnatural mechanical life which Industrialism forces upon the laborer is a proper and healthy life from which the laborer can arise if he will to greater economic prestige. But your laboring-man is not always contented with the continual addition of dolars in the form of increased wages—he sees that this factory existence of his in which he plays the part of a helpless pawn, or better still a cog in the machinery of a ponderous system which he cannot control, is starving his very soul (strange that one should have a soul these days) and hence he grows sullenly, mustering sometimes enough rage to revolt or at least barely tolerates its drudgery. The workman will have his share of the profits of his industry and of the control which his wealthy master too fond of his luxury, too fearsome of economic disaster, strenuously endeavors, to deprive him. This is Capitalism—and one solution of the problem. We have had over a century of it. Are we happier? Are we wealthier?

And now, what is our solution? History illustrates the ultimate feature of war (human stupidity on an international scale) as a measure of progress. Co-operation, not conflict, must be the principle of society, for while conflict and competition stimulate individual enterprise and energy they cause vast expenditure of it along unproductive channels—namely, in the neutralisation of other sources of energy often for petty purposes. Conflict is extravagant, unsatisfying and degenerating to higher ideals and therefore cannot be as practical a principle as that of co-operation in the production of an efficient state. In the latter alone lies the saving of the race—brotherhood between individuals as between nations. All else is chaos and barbarism. The barriers of tariff, racial prejudice, grievance, must be broken down by an ever greater mingling of races and ideas which will dissolve by mutual understanding.

Thus we end with the age-old belief that in the brotherhood of man lies the hope of man's survival. We have no confidence that our capitalistic system can inspire this brotherhood but fear the reverse, and while it may add to the industry and so-called wealth of society, it cannot bring peace for it is founded on selfish ambition. A new motive is needed—a higher motive and a higher type of man to establish securely an international Christian Socialism. Hence they cause vast expenditure of it a reformation of society along lines

PEPYS AT MCGILL

Monday, Nov. 14th. This day came to me with a very long and doleful countenance my friend Mr. Redlocks who is of the Sophomores, as I poured into my car such a tale of woe because our Freshmen in Arts had not yet deemed it fit to invite them to the banquet which it seems customary to give, and so I did upraid him for his unseemly gluttony and bid him have patience in all things. To-morrow night it is very like that I shall vote with they who have been chosen the King's Ministers at the Mock Parliament, for in that way if I take good care to call out in a loud voice "Huzza" or "Bravo" at any witticism they shall make I shall likely obtain a lucrative position under the Crown; such perhaps as some seat in the Canadian Admiralty, for which I am well fitted both by descent and natural parts. Coming in suddenly to my lodging-house this afternoon I discovered pretty little Anne Mary, the daughter of mine hostess, seated by the inglenook abrooding in coloured silks of divers hues the blazon of the Pepsys family upon the toes of certain bed-room slippers she is knitting me; the arms of our Norfolk branch being three roundels or upon a field of gules, and just in time to prevent her from making her roundels to look more like dough-nuts than any other thing. Much mirth and badinage threat, and what a pleasing little chit she is.

RAMSAY IS NOW TENNIS CHAMPION

Intercollegiate Finals Played Off Last Saturday

Last Saturday C. N. Ramsay, last again proved his worth when he defeated his team-mate Morice in a brilliant and hard fought game.

This game, which was the Intercollegiate final, should have been played when the challengers from Toronto 'Varsity were here, but owing to the fact that the light was getting poor, as well as the fact that it was between the two McGill men, it was decided to postpone the game until more favorable conditions should present themselves.

Accordingly the playoff was held last Saturday on the indoor courts at Cote St. in amh ntahm nta ta tamham de Neige Rd. After a very hard fought battle, in which the two players were very evenly matched, Ramsay managed to turn the trick in the last set, thus giving him the Intercollegiate title.

NEWS RECEIVED FROM THE "QUEST"

Dr. Caldwell Receives Letter from Geologist of Shackleton's Expedition

Professor Caldwell has given in to the Daily which we print below.

He tells us that one night after eleven o'clock last September, in London, while crossing Trafalgar Square to Whitehall, he was hailed by a cheery voice informing him that its owner had often seen him on the McGill Campus, and that he had already met the speaker's sister (Miss Douglas) at Cambridge that same summer.

Capt. Douglas went on to tell Dr. Caldwell that he was the geologist aboard the famous "Quest", adding that the ship's company would all be pleased if he would come down any afternoon and look the "Quest" over.

Dr. Caldwell gladly did this the next day, striking up a friendship with Douglas, and getting in a good talk about many things. He met the officers and men of the ship, and saw all over the vessel.

Douglas in his promised letter to greet his McGill friends, speaks of the reparation of an apparent omission in the equipment of the "Quest", commented on by Dr. Caldwell. This was the omission of anything like heating arrangements from the cabins and bunks of the men. He asked Douglas why they did not have some simple "Majestic" heaters in these cabins in case of illness, or as a provision against the long cold days and nights.

The fellows were all magnificent, picked, of course, including one man from each of the Dominions. But the point about heaters was obvious and Douglas took it to heart. He speaks of it and of other things in his letter, which we are sure will interest our readers. He was a Science student who had experience in Western Canada, and has a fine war record.

McGill wishes the "Quest" and her representative aboard "bon voyage." The following is Douglas' letter:

"Quest", R.V.S.,
Approaching Madiera,
15-10-21.

Dear Dr. Caldwell:

Just a line to tell you that the Philosopher's suggestion was a trump card. I got a company to give us a heater with a bright glare for the ward room, and the Admiralty tipped up about four more. We had a great send-off, and came round to Plymouth, thence to Lisbon, where we stayed a week undergoing repairs to the engine, which had developed a knock. I met an old McGill man there named Mitchell. He is a grain importer and has a beautiful villa out on the slopes of Cintra, from which he can see the "treble works, the vast designs" of Torres Vadrass.

I enclose a snap I took as we sailed down the Thomas Sept. 17th, 1921. Looking forward Capt. Frank Wild, C.B.E.; in foreground, J. C. Ber Mason, the photographer on the bridge with movie machine.

Excuse hasty note but with very kindest regards,

Yours sincerely,
N. V. DOUGLAS.

GLEE CLUB SHOWS MUCH ENTHUSIASM

Had Regular Weekly Practice Last Night

The Glee Club met last night for its weekly practice with the usual display of enthusiasm. About thirty men turned out and took their part in working the songs up to concert pitch.

There is still room for some more tenors, and new recruits with tenor voices will be heartily welcomed. In a College of this size there are surely more than ten men who can fill those places. It is hoped that the next practice on the 21st will see this lack supplied.

Don't delay any longer but join at once. The new music will soon be out from England and if you put it off too long you will find it difficult to catch up with the work which has been learned.

The Club is "going strong" but it can do with more support from the student body. Don't imagine that you won't like it. Give it one try and—you will come again.

The next practice will be held on Monday next at the usual hour 7 o'clock. All out.

ing on the tables. The articles in the Army Quarterly are of immense interest to the general reader, quite apart from their purely military significance, because they are written mainly about events on which world-history has hinged, by men who are in the best possible position to know their inner and outer history.

As the session progresses, field operations will be carried on, and candidates will be given practical work with map, compass, and protractor, sitting trenches, choosing defensive positions, etc. The work is interesting and it is fully expected that McGill men will be among the best in these examinations, which are held each March under the auspices of the Imperial War Office simultaneously throughout the Empire. Those who wish to take either of these certificates should join up as soon as possible, so that they may get the full benefit of the course.

AT THE THEATRES

THE PRINCESS

The programme at the Princess from its number A to L is replete with brilliance embellished with the extraordinary rendering of the song hits of the hour.

Bill and Blondy in "Just Boys" give us without a doubt one of the finest exhibitions of acrobatic stunts coupled with speed and strength—things so rarely given together in such an exhibition.

Ed. Furman and Will Nash are "scoring touchdowns on the gridiron of song" this week. They make a good thing of "Ten little fingers and ten little toes." They piece together a few fragments of songs of other days and combine the whole with clever patter into something well worth hearing.

Solly Ward and Co. with Marion Murray to aid and abet him plays a satirical comedy of one gay act called "Babies." The comedy tells us just how "He" treats the different babies and also how "She" watches him. It is clever and just the seed for a great laugh from start to finish. He might be called "a study in contrast."

The Princess is fortunate in having Mrs. E. Hatheway Turnbull on its programme this week. "The International Humanitarian," as well she is named tells of our animals and how they help us—their great work in the war—the human's realization of their value and the resulting treatment that they are receiving. She illustrates her work and emphasizes her already forceful words with her original "Animal Movies."

J. B. Maddocks presents Rolfe's Review in the cast of which we hear Charles E. Edwards the world's foremost cornetist who during his solo plays practically "C" above High "C." The juvenile Walter Morrison and Elinore Hart the soprano are a pair of singers worthy of the best in vaudeville. Cecilia Corman is a violinist of no mean ability. We rise from our seats to see and follow the dance-charmer Jean Berkeley as she softly steps the boards.

The McBans delight us with a comedy juggling novelty. The two artists are a show in themselves.

Eddie Kane and Jay Herman in "A ragtime cocktail" and Francis Dooley and Corinne Sales in "Willyer Jim" complete a bill you will enjoy.

CAPITOL

The bill at the Capitol this week is one of best that has been shown at that house this season.

"The Great Impersonation" from the novel by Phillips Oppenheim is proof that this popular author's work can be successfully adapted for the screen. It is hoped that others will follow.

The film does not lose in interest nor does it lack in any of the thrills and adventures which are characteristic of Oppenheim by being adapted.

The scenes of the insane son are weird in the extreme: Those in Africa, showing German native soldiery are especially interesting and throughout the whole story, the excitement never lags.

James Kirkwood in a dual role is splendid. Aided by photography he presents two studies which are worthy of rote. He comes as near Oppenheim's idea of a hero as is possible.

The musical part of the programme contains everything from jazz to grand opera. "A Night in Spain," a dancing and singing act, surpasses many vaudeville acts of this nature seen at first class houses to-day. The dancing is excellent and the Capitol Jazzamians excel themselves.

Senor Dori, "Popular Italian Tenor," gave one selection which was appreciated by the greater part of the house who tried to bring him back without success.

Even the Mack Sunnet, which with the "New" completed the bill, was good. It contained novel situations which brought many laughs from the crowded house.

ORPHEUM

"Turn to the Right," a play well known to veteran theatre goers is excellently presented by the Orpheum players this week. The acting in general might be said to favourably compare with the original company, though unfortunately the leading lady had somewhat of a minor part. The play itself is a mixture of comedy and tragedy, and quite as appreciable as a Bronx cocktail would be to-day.

A short prologue introduces the leading man, Joe Bascom and his two crooked pals, who meet in a place a cross between a pawn shop and a boarding house.

The setting for the three acts is in a small country town at Joe's old home. Joe returns just in time to secure some money by a clever trick of one of his pals from the dishonest village deacon who tried to buy Mrs. Bascom's valuable fruit orchard for a nominal amount.

Joe and his two pals each find the girl of their heart and settle down to be honest peach mongers.

I saw you fair one, bending softly o'er,
With grace that ever is and has been thine;
I gazed at you, enchanted more and more;
So fair you seemed, I'd vow you were divine;
And closer, slowly, aye, but closer still.

Approached those tempting ruby lips of thine.
The interval grew less and less until She stopped, and rested then, at last on

The drinking fountain.

SEMI-READY COAT SALE ALL WEEK

Winter Overcoats on Sale at Semi-Ready Factory from Monday until Saturday

"All this week the sale of Semi-ready overcoats at wholesale prices will continue—but not after five o'clock in the afternoon," said the general manager.

"Last week we sold 50 of the 500 overcoats and ulsters, but this week we should be able to clear the lot.

"There are no cheap or cottony mixtures in Semi-ready overcoatings, because whenever our label is put in the pocket it is a contract of satisfaction—or a new coat.

"The Semi-ready Company could not afford to make up any of the cheap or tawdry fabrics which flooded the market in the period of high prices. They stood firm on quality and protected the reputation of their trade mark.

"Ulsters, Ulsterettes, English slippers, form-fitting, and roomy Chesterfields—all styles of overcoats—with yoke linings, full twill linings and some wool linings.

"There are two very special bargains: one a genuine pure wool frieze coat at $25.50 and the other a brown Ulsterette with tweed lining—a veritable zero coat."

The Semi-ready factory is at 472 Guy street, a block above St. Catherine; and the overcoats are on the top floor.—Advt.
